To Our Saginaw Day Camp Family

It is with a heavy heart that we announce our decision to close Saginaw Day Camp for the 2021 season. We have spent the greater part of the past year researching, attending online seminars, and creating policies to operate summer camp in the age of COVID-19. Our goal all along was to welcome all of our campers and families back to Saginaw Day Camp (SDC) and provide a sensational summer.

As you may know, Camp Saginaw's overnight camp program has been running for over 90 summers, and SDC shares certified activity instructors, facilities, and the dining hall. After extensive consultation with medical and camping professionals, we have concluded that operating these two programs in the same facility does not maximize our opportunity for success in managing COVID-19.

For the 2021 summer, Camp Saginaw's residential camp program will likely be operating in a "controlled environment". We are hopeful that some of you will choose to enroll your child into our residential camp program (there are 2-week to 7-week options for campers). More information may be found www.campsaginaw.com.

We know how disappointing this must be for you and your children. Our hearts are in camping and we have spent our lives making SDC what it is today. If there was a way to safely run both programs, believe me we would. Know that SDC will be back in 2022 and we are hopeful that you will be too.

We will miss you and we wish you and your children all the best.

Sincerely in Camping,

Adam & Tracy Schwartzberg
Directors, Saginaw Day Camp
